

Heather V. Fogg, Quality Assistance Director

Heather V. Fogg serves as Quality Assistance Director for the Maryland Judiciary's Mediation and Conflict Resolution Office (MACRO). She is an experienced conflict resolution practitioner in a variety of practices, including circle-keeping, community conferencing, mediating and facilitating dialogue. Heather is an adjunct faculty member of Howard Community College where she teaches Introduction to Conflict Resolution and Introduction to Restorative Justice. She also serves as a founding board member and current Secretary for the Circle of Restorative Initiatives (CRI) for Maryland. Heather earned her Master's and Bachelor's degrees in Psychology from the College of William and Mary and the Ohio State University respectively.